The truthfulness of this assertion is too obvious to require justification. At the same time educational practice has not been influenced sufficiently by the knowledge which a better understanding of individuality will supply. The following study was undertaken with the desire of satisfying a personal need and in the hope that some contribution might be made to the knowledge of the conditions which determine character. In the last analysis the problem involves a consideration of the relative influence of the two most general factors of biological existence, viz., heredity and environment. It is believed that some of the conclusions presented throw additional light on certain phases of the relationship between these two factors. The original material used was supplied almost exclusively by a select body of students under competent supervision and in response to two questionnaires, one asking for information concerning Peculiar and Exceptional Children and the other relating to the Only Child in a Family. In response to the first a few over a thousand reports were received, and to the second a few less than four hundred. The following is the first syllabus: I. Think over your own childhood and consider if you were a striking illustration of any of the following types, and if so, describe your case: II. Consider if you have any friends who would come into any of the classes below, and ask them to describe their own cases. III. If you have children of your own; or if you are a...
