The Latino Psychiatric Patient: Assessment and Treatment

By Alberto G. Lopez, Ernestina Carrillo

American Psychiatric Publishing. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, The Latino Psychiatric Patient: Assessment and Treatment, Alberto G. Lopez, Ernestina Carrillo, Constituting nearly 12 percent of the US population, Latinos (a term used interchangeably with the term Hispanic throughout the text) are expected to become the second-largest race/ethnic group (after non-Hispanic whites) by 2010. This growth emphasizes the increasing importance of understanding the cultural factors affecting the psychiatric treatment of Latino patients.

Integrating culture-specific treatments, such as the services of a folk healer (called a santero in Cuba and a curandero in Mexico), with more traditional interventions, such as medication and case management services, is crucial to achieving successful outcomes for Latino patients. This unique book helps mental health professionals acquire the knowledge, skills, and -- most important -- the cultural sensitivity necessary for treating Latino patients in the United States. The book can aid clinicians in learning to appreciate the importance of language, culture, religion, gender, sexual orientation, race, and ethnicity in psychiatric evaluation and care. The editors of this insightful, wide-ranging text have structured the work of 20 distinguished contributors into three major sections: * Section I, Overview, presents an overview and brief history of Latinos in...
