Not illustrated. 1843 Excerpt: .fidelity, and I have in all things studied the wishes of such officers as, since the departure of Messrs. Burnes and Macnaghten, have, from time to time arrived in the country. In accordance with the saying, that all that a friend does is good, I have preserved silence with regard to what has occurred, and have consented to the injustice which has, in this manner, been shewn to me; and for the future too, . if it please God, I will not, as far as my power goes, place my foot outside the circle of friendship, because the letters and actions of the illustrious Governor-General of India, are engraved on my heart as on a tablet of stone, and every letter of them being, as they are, equivalent to the strongest engagements, is always before my eyes, and thus, relying upon these letters, I looked forward to a happy result, and the accomplishment of my fullest wishes, and in dependence on the sincerity of my own intentions, and the reality of the friendship I have shewn, as evinced in my entrusting the fortress of Bukkur, for the security and protection of the stores of the army, and in other instances of support. In dependence upon this, I own that I have the fullest confidence, that the Governor-General, having by other means become acquainted with the occurrences I have alluded to, and being convinced of the sincerity of friendship I have displayed, will, cherish and support me in...
